

BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK and POULTRY MEDICINE

Stock and poultry have few troubles which are not local and liver irregularities. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is a powerful remedy for all such troubles. It is a perfect conditioner, promotes American breeders and farmers keep their herds and flocks healthy by giving them an occasional dose of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine in their food. Any stock raiser may buy a 25-cent half-pint bottle of this medicine from his dealer and keep his stock in vigorous health for weeks. Dealers generally keep Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine. If yours does not, send 25 cents for a sample can to the manufacturers, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

ROCKWELL, Ga., Jan. 20, 1904.
Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is the best I ever tried. Our stock was looking bad when we sent for the medicine and now they are getting so fine. They are looking 20 per cent better.

Judge George DuBelle, late a justice of the Kentucky Court of Appeals, is at the point of death at Louisville, an operation performed proving unsuccessful. He is unconscious and one side is paralyzed. No hope for his recovery is entertained.

GERMAN SYRUP.
We want to impress on our readers that Beebe's German Syrup is positively the only preparation on the market today that does relieve and cure consumption. It contains the specific, such as pure tar, extracts of gums, etc., which have been so highly endorsed for the cure of coughs, colds and consumption by the great medical congresses. The consumptive, whether his disease be in the throat or lungs, must have rest at night, and be free from the spasms of dry and hacking cough in the morning. The diseased parts want rest, healing and soothing treatment, and the patient needs fresh air, good food, and German Syrup will give free and easy expectation in the morning with energy and permanent relief. Small bottles 35 cents; regular size, containing nearly four times as much, 75 cents. At all drug stores.

Some people fear to try lest they should succeed.
The hopes of this world is in the hard things we have to do.

Foley's Honey and Tar positively cures all throat and lung diseases. Refuse substitutes. Louis Drug Company.

The C. & O. railway will sell round trip tickets between stations on their system at a rate of one and one-third first class fare on the following dates: Dec. 23, 24, 25, 30, 31, Jan. 1, limited returning to Jan. 10, 1904. No adult ticket will be sold at this rate for less than 50c, and no child's ticket for less than 25c.

WANTED: To sell or exchange property on the N. & W. R. R. Store and dwelling of nine rooms. Near depot, good business locality, value $2,000. Will exchange for farm of equal value in eastern Kentucky.
Mrs. Rebecca J. Peters, Iseger, W. Va.

Don't forget the old man with the fish on his back.
For nearly thirty years he has been traveling around the world, and is still traveling, bringing health and comfort wherever he goes.

To the consumptive he brings the strength and flesh he so much needs.
To all weak and sickly children he gives rich and strengthening food.

To thin and pale persons he gives new firm flesh and rich red blood.
Children who first saw the old man with the fish are now grown up and have children of their own.

He stands for Scott's Emulsion of pure cod liver oil—a delightful food and a natural tonic for children, for old folks and for all who need flesh and strength.

OUR NEIGHBORS.

Rev. French Rice, of Blaine, who was recently called to preach on the John's Creek Circuit, M. E. Church, South, is confined to his room at the residence of Judge H. B. Rice, at Hager Hill. Mr. Rice is afflicted with what is supposed to be sciatica.—Paintsville Herald.

Huntington, W. Va., Dec. 14.—Russell Lucas was brought here from Logan county today and placed in jail to prevent his being mobbed. Lucas killed John Craddock, it is alleged, because the latter gave evidence against him in a lawsuit. Lucas was brought through the mountains on horse-back.

Lexington, Ky., December 14.—After suffering from total blindness for years J. W. Day, known throughout the Big Sandy section, as the "blind fiddler" and who solicited alms, was operated upon in the hospital here. The surgeons have hopes that his sight will be restored. He is about 50 years old and formerly lived in Ashland, Ky.

James Andrew Scott, representing James P. Adams, Republican, of Magoffin, in his contest against James L. Roberts, of Lee, for the office of Commonwealth's Attorney in the Breckinridge Circuit Court district, has filed suit in the Lee Circuit Court for recovery and possession of the office. Fraud and the reign of terror in Breckinridge is raised in the petition.

Ashland, Ky., Dec. 18.—Mrs. James Darnell, a bride of forty-eight hours, met with a most thrilling accident today while trying to cross the Ohio river on ice. While in mid-stream the gorge suddenly gave way and the ice began to move. A boat was launched from the Ohio side, and after two hours' dangerous work the lady was rescued from the perilous position on a cake of floating ice. Just as the boat reached her she fainted.

"Doc" Gilley, of Lexington, a fireman on the O. and K. railroad, running from Jackson to Cannel City, was fatally injured by jumping from his engine. The train in charge of Engineer Jesse Newman and Fireman Gilley was descending a steep incline, when the former lost control of the engine and, thinking that the engine would leave the tracks at any minute, jumped while the train was going at the rate of sixty miles an hour, striking his head against a stone fence, splitting his skull open. The doctors in charge say that he cannot live. Newman remained at his post and after the train had plunged on for several miles managed to stop it.

The committee that was appointed at the annual conference of the Western Virginia conference of the M. E. Church, South, at Parkersburg, in September met last week in Guyandotte and selected Clarksville as the point at which the conference is to meet next year. It is the usual custom to select the meeting place of the conference at the regular session, but this year the matter was referred to a committee. An effort was made to bring the conference to Huntington, but it was argued that the conference had not been held in the central portion of the state for a number of years, and Clarksville was finally selected upon as the proper place.—Cincinnati Press.

Representative Hopkins, of the Tenth district, will introduce a bill in the House for the relief of the widow and children of Deputy United States Marshal Wm. A. Bird, who died a moonshine still in the Kentucky mountains several years ago and was assassinated by ambushed while riding overland with his prisoners to Jackson, Breathitt county. Mrs. Bird and her children now live at Campion, in Wolf county. Bird was an efficient officer and his murder was one of the most cold-blooded ever committed in the mountains. Mr. Hopkins' bill is somewhat unique, but he will ask for $2,500 or more and will work hard to secure the passage of the bill.

Owingsville, Ky., Dec. 14.—A pretty little romance came to light here today. For several years Miss Clara Johnson, of Aaron's Run and Charles Glen, of Pleasant Grove, Cal., have been sweethearts. They became engaged and Glenn sent his Kentucky sweetheart several handsome diamonds, besides other gifts. Glenn was too busy in adding to his already considerable wealth to come to Kentucky to be married to Miss Johnson, so he wrote her to come to California and sent her money to pay for transportation. Miss Johnson duly left to join Mr. Glen, but on the way she met Mr. Daniel Easterling, a wealthy young farmer of Morgan county Ky. It was a case of love at first sight with both and they were married. The newly-made Mrs. Easterling telegraphed Mr. Glenn and returned his diamonds and money. Mr. Glenn replied congratulating them.

What The Earth Produces.

The earth has nourished us through unknown ages of human existence. Is it not true that the earth supplies us with everything that we really require for existence? Have you ever thought that it is probable that the earth supplies us with the means to keep our bodily vigor, our health, if we only knew it? That is why Dr. Pierce's "Medical Discovery" is so popular. It is a discovery that a combination of certain herbs and roots made into an extract, with out the use of alcohol, would always put the stomach into a healthy condition, nourish the tissues, feed the blood and nerves and put healthy tone into the whole system.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery restores the lost flesh by curing diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition and enabling the perfect digestion and assimilation of food from which flesh and strength are made.

"I was all run down, very nervous, and suffered terribly from stomach trouble, which the doctors pronounced 'indigestion,' writes Mrs. Wm. C. Marshall, of Marshall, Mich. 'I tried for a year without permanent relief. Was advised by a friend to try Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, and after the use of nine bottles I was cured. I can heartily recommend the Golden Medical Discovery to any one suffering from stomach trouble. My husband was also greatly benefited by its use.'"

LAST NAIL IS DRIVEN

Kentucky Building at World's Fair Ready For Dedication.

IT IS A MOST IMPOSING STRUCTURE

Occupies the Best Site On the Exposition Grounds For a State Edifice. Has Wide and Deep Lawn For Blue Grass In Front and a Beautiful Cluster of Cedar Trees in the Plot.

To say that the Kentucky Building at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition is the most pretentious ever erected to represent the State at either a national or international fair is putting it very mildly. If Kentuckians have been ashamed of their State buildings at former expositions—and there is no denying this fact—their assertion may be made without fear of contradiction that no citizen of the State will look upon the Kentucky Building at the St. Louis World's Fair without feeling proud of its nativity and the building which marks the dawn of a new era in Kentucky's life. When it was stated that the Kentucky Building occupies the most commanding of all State structures on the ground, the writer spoke advisedly. It stands within what is commonly known as the main picture of the great show, while other State buildings are to be found a half mile away on the plateau of States. It, therefore, occupies a position at once the envy and admiration of citizens of sister States.

Sitting well back on a lawn, two hundred feet wide by three hundred and sixty-five feet long, it is at an intersection of two of the main thoroughfares of the exposition, one leading from the Grand Basin by the Palace of Education and the Mines Building to the United States Fisheries, the other by the Government Building and the Metal Pavilion to the terrace of Louisiana Purchase States, the palace of Fine Arts, Festival Hall, the Cascade Gardens and the restaurant pavilions. Can one imagine a more ideal location? Every American citizen holds the Government building as part of his and when visiting an exposition, whether for a day or for a month, includes the structure that represents Uncle Sam as many times as possible in his tour of the grounds. To come to the Government Building he must see Kentucky. It may be justly assumed, then, with all these points of vantage, that "The New Kentucky Home" will be seen by more people than any other building of this kind at the fair.

There is no describing the Kentucky Building. It must be seen to have its beauty appreciated. As the architect would say, however, it covers an area 138 feet by 108 feet, including porches and verandas. The building may be said to be entirely surrounded by porches and verandas. Every side is an imposing entrance, with the front and rear emphasized by massive porches. To the original plans have been added an attractive stoop as an approach to the front porch. Midway between this stoop and the wide roadway to the southwest of the Mines Building, the lawn takes on the form of a terrace, the beauty of which will be heightened as the bluegrass, nurtured by the snows in winter, peeps through its native soil—two car loads having been transported to St. Louis for this purpose—to await the admiring gaze of the thousands who will pass up the Kentucky asphalt walks to the hospitality of this Kentucky Home.

To the right of this lawn is a cluster of beautiful cedars, which rustic benches and its cooling shade will make an inviting spot to many visitors. The walk leads around the northwest of the building by the rear entrance to the roadway, previously described as running by the Government building to the Palace of Fine Arts, etc. Here at the rear of the building stands a row of the large trees that made Forest Park, the seat of the Exposition, famous before it was determined to commemorate, by an exposition, the purchase of the Louisiana territory. Two of these trees seemingly grow up through the porch of the building at the southwest corner. The exposition officials, desiring to preserve, as far as possible, all these monarchs of the forest, would not have consented to have these two trees removed, had the Building Committee of the Kentucky Exhibit Association desired it. They give a touch of nature to the building which is pleasing to the eye. Thirty-five feet from the rear of the Kentucky Home will be other terraces and steps leading to the lawn upon which is being erected, in the shape of a five-pointed star, the Texas Building.

The Kentucky Building has three floors—the first to be used as a general reception hall, with a hard floor; the second as a ladies' reception hall; and the third, with its roof garden over the porches at every side, as a rendezvous for those who desire to corner in birdcage looms, the beauty of the grounds. In the center of the second and third floors is a light well with attractive balustrades encircling, giving to the visitor on the first floor, looking up, a magnificent view of the dome, with its many colored glasses, to the center of the reception hall, on the first floor, will be installed exhibits of minerals, forestry, etc. It was at first intended to have a large mosaic map of the State, showing by counties the products and resources, but the Building Committee of Commissioners' Sitting.
